

I was away in England visiting my family for 2 wonderful weeks. It was their schools' half term over there so my 2 sisters and 2 of my nieces were all off work. I was able to spend a lot of time with them and my Mum & Dad, and was introduced to my newest Great Nephew - Rocco. I had a great time visiting my in-laws, which is always fun and met up with old friends.

But now I am home, I love England but I love Canada even more. This is where my family are settled and Canada has been and continues to be good to us.

Kind regards

Testimonial:

Once I got the right size, my been-a-boobs have been in and out of bathing suits, sports and regular bras all summer. I'm a dragon boater and Lake Simcoe gets rough- so we get very wet and the BAB dries very quickly. I bought both a round and a heart shape- even without ADP support, they were much less than one prosthesis. I prefer the heart-shape in my bathing suits, pocketed or not, and the round in my regular bras.
Your service is excellent- even when I screw up my on-line order- and very fast.

Customers Story

One of my customers is writing her life story which was published in Florida last year. She has devoted a chapter on her breast cancer journey.

It's a very moving account of her journey and although I know we all have our own stories, sometimes it's good to know that we are not alone. It's also interesting to see how others handle their situations.

The chapter is found here My Unexpected Journey

Karen is a lovely lady and I wish her all the very best.

Interesting Article in Balance Magazine

I was sent this article by a fellow breast cancer survivor and thought it was really interesting.

Do you feel that you are alone?

Are you concerned your feelings are unjustified?

Check this out and you will realize that we breast cancer survivors think alot alike!!
